Thanks for playing, Lehi Weed!

Thank you for taking a version of the Turing Test. Your results:

You got 13 items correct and 2 items incorrect.

_____

VERSION: 0

1. Do you think AI-generated work is original?

    Definitely not original, but is any human work truly original? All our ideas originate from something that already exists.

2. Is it important for the evolution of a society to have members that continue to produce original work?

    Absolutely, AI can't learn if there isn't anything new to learn, at least that's what I tell people who get upset over "AI taking peoples jobs." I guess time will tell.

3. When looking at a piece of work to evaluate its quality, merit, and/or value, is it important that we know if that piece of work is generated by a human or by AI? Why or why not?

    I think it depends on the work, for casual internet stories or posts, fact checking isn't necessary. Now if it's something that could cause harm or spread inaccurate misinformation that will affect the lives of people, it is important that we are informed that AI has generated the said content.